Q: jOOQ - Can I delete data from a table, if it is present in another table In short - I want to delete data from table A, if it matches another table B. I'm confused about how best to approach this in jOOQ. Here's a minimal example, using postgres and jOOQ 3.4.2: Table B: id name 1 john 2 henry Table A: id name 1 john I want to delete data from table A, where there is a row in table B with id = 1. If I had a sequence of SQL (not jOOQ) I would say: DELETE FROM A WHERE A.ID = B.ID I'm a bit lost about how to do this in jOOQ. I tried many variations, but jOOQ seems to be smart enough to not delete rows from the table it's generating as part of the SELECT statement. For example, this will be the wrong table structure: DELETE FROM TableA a WHERE a.id = (SELECT ID FROM TableB b WHERE b.name = 'john') Any pointers appreciated! A: The best way to achieve this in jOOQ 3.x is to use the deleteByExample() or deleteByExampleAndWhere() methods, i.e. TableA a = tableA(); TableB b = tableB(); a.deleteByExample(new TableAExample(b), rows -> rows.deleteRow()); a.deleteByExampleAndWhere(new TableAExample(b), rows -> rows.deleteRow()); Note that deleteByExampleAndWhere() is a bit more general, but deleteByExample() is shorter. You should also check the jOOQ manual entry for explain() to find out whether the generated SQL uses indexes on the table or not. ----- Forwarded by Vince J Kaminski/HOU/ECT on 11/27/2000 04:44 PM ----- Vince J Kaminski 11/13/2000 04:20 PM To: cc: Subject: Your presentation ----- Forwarded by Vince J Kaminski/HOU/ECT on 11/13/2000 04

Testicular steroidogenesis in fetal mice. In experiments using fetal mice, testosterone (T) synthesis by the fetal testis was measured by 5 alpha-reductase assay. The endogenous T concentration was raised in 3-day-old fetuses, decreased in 7-day-old fetuses and remained low in 15-day-old fetuses. The 5 alpha-reductase activity was found to be higher in 3-day-old fetuses and 15-day-old fetuses than in 7-day-old fetuses. Leydig cell nuclear concentrations of RNA and DNA decreased from the 3rd to 7th day of fetal life. In addition, the amount of RNA in the fetal Leydig cells tended to decrease from the 3rd to 15th day of fetal life. The concentration of DNA in the fetal Leydig cells did not change in 7-day-old fetuses, but decreased in 3-day-old fetuses and 15-day-old fetuses. The simplest way to tell a student how to read is to show them how you do it. And you're doing it now with your co-workers. Or rather, while I'm doing it. Scott Reads: Now, I know what you're thinking. You're thinking, "How am I going to find his email address?" Well, you're not because he clearly doesn't use email. And since you don't know his name, you need to rely on his tags. If your tags are "Sci-Fi" and "Comic Books" you'll find a S. Scott Read there. If they're "Gaming" and "Toy" you'll find his name as S. Scott Read. If they're "Tattoo" and "Geek Chic" and "Lovable Jerks" and "I Love My Papa" then he's Scott Read. Which one do I use, Scott? And here's what I see. It's [Scott's correct name] and a long list of tags. Which one should I click? The one I have the most in common with? If I know I'm reading a sci-fi review or a comic book review, I
