Learn how to install Win8 ScreenSaver Clock for free! you think your job is hard, imagine what it's like for the young people who make $2.13 an hour for 40-hours a week. The job loss in the retail industry over the past six months has been swift, from the top - President and Chief Executive Officer Walt Disney Co. Bob Iger warned last month that Disney Stores, the company's US retail division, will fall victim to the growing e-commerce business. In October 2012, Disney and the National Retail Federation jointly announced a $1 billion effort to capitalize on the growing e-commerce market. But the strategic relationship has since been tested. The price of oil over the past six months is one reason the holiday shopping season has been weak. And with the disappointing release of TV show "Parks and Recreation" after seven seasons, retail sales also are off. Wal-Mart Inc. said Thursday it is closing all 3,000 of its Sam's Club stores and 50 supercenters in the next few months, and will end its two-year lease of Linens 'n Things, a mattress and bedding chain, in the third quarter of this year. These moves, from the world's largest retailer, further stoke the notion that the stores are too expensive, that profits can be had elsewhere and that Walmart's days as a discount retail giant are at an end. Wal-Mart has said that the moves were not related to the weak US holiday shopping season, that they are a part of its plan to return to its roots as an affordable retail store, but some analysts say they are a warning of things to come. "In its previous life, Walmart had a
